LAKE MICHIGAN beach GUIDE

THE GREAT LAKES (AND BEACHES) STATE

Michigan is home to some of the most incredible, unique landscapes that are rare to find all in one state. There aren't many states you can name off the top of your head that are home to several thriving cities, forests, rolling hills, waterfalls, farmland, and our favorite—fresh water beaches. We may be a bit biased to the Great Lakes (Lake Michigan in particular) as a brand marketing company located in Grand Rapids, but we believe that Michigan's western coast is by far one of the best features of our state, and even the country.

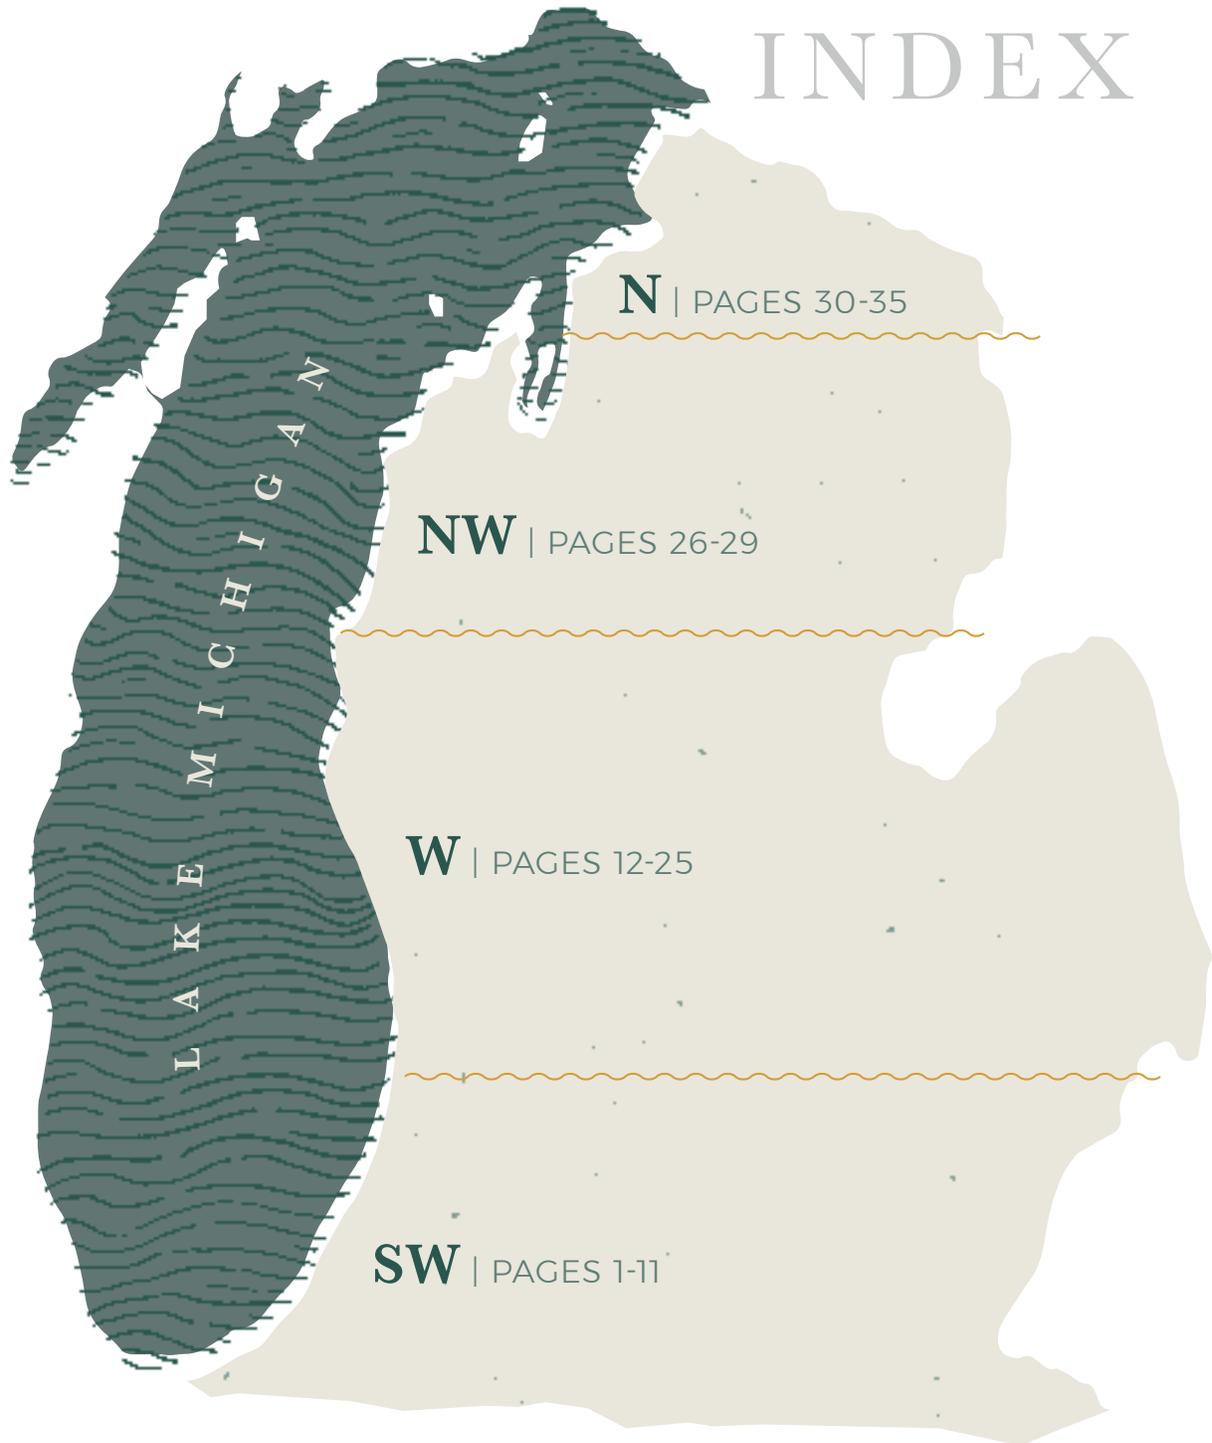

TO PROTECT AND TO TAP OUR CREATIVITY

As a certified B Corporation, TIS is a group of creatives with a triple-bottom-line mentality (people, planet, profit)—so Lake Michigan is especially important to us. First and foremost, the lakes and dunes are one of our most significant natural resources in Michigan, and we are dedicated to protecting these natural landscapes by treating them with respect and care. Just as important, the lake is a place we retreat when we need to recharge, to seek inspiration, to reflect, to tap into our creativity, and to simply relax and let go. Lake Michigan beaches are the most picturesque spots to do so.

PUTTING THE FOCUS ON THE BEACHES

Because we're so partial to Lake Michigan, we wanted to spread the love and appreciation by creating this beach guide for you to use time and time again. With this guide, we set aside all the extras—lodging, entertainment, special events—and put the focus back on the beaches, honoring their beauty just as they are—raw, real and our natural hero. Whether you're taking a road trip along the coast, planning a week-long vacation, or want to learn about a beach in a nearby town, our Lake Michigan Beach Guide will become your favorite go-to resource this summer. You'll definitely want to bookmark this one for safe keeping!

SPECIAL PLACES ★

★ UNRULY BREWING CO. | 360 W. WESTERN AVE, MUSKEGON, MI

NW

Fun fact: Unruly Brewing Co. in Muskegon, MI is the first craft brewery in the city to open since prohibition—yeah, that’s a long time. Housed in a fully-restored building from the 1890s, Unruly serves some unique and equally delicious craft beer in downtown Muskegon, just a short drive from Muskegon State Park and Duck Lake State Park—a perfect spot for post-beach libations. If you’re into dark beers, we recommend the Mad Cacao Disease. Yum!

★ THE MITTEN BAR & BARLEY & RYE | 107 W LUDINGTON AVE, LUDINGTON, MI

NW

After spending a long day at the beach, nothing feels better than to kick back and unwind with a drink at the popular local bar—or in this case, conjoined bars. The Mitten Bar and Barley & Rye are neighboring bars, located in the popular beach town of Ludington, and nearby Pentwater and Manistee. The Mitten side features an impressive draft list of all Michigan-made brews, with live music and entertainment on the weekends. If you’re feeling hungry for food and whiskey, walk on over to the Barley & Rye side and have fun choosing from their extensive whiskey selection. This is the place to bring your friends and sing and dance the night away!

While passing through the northern region of Michigan, make sure to make a pit stop at Mustang Wendy's in Harbor Springs, MI for a unique spin on fresh West-Mex, where "California cuisine meets Cowboy Cookery." We stopped at Mustang Wendy's for lunch on the second day of our beach road trip, and scarfed down a variety of cuisine including vegan nachos, breakfast burritos, quesadillas, fresh-fish tacos, housemade cocktails and specialty craft beer from Petoskey Brewing Co. Whether you're stopping in for breakfast, lunch, dinner, or just drinks and appetizers, you'll find something you'll absolutely love.

WHAT AN ADVENTURE.

Over approximately 36 hours, a writer, a photographer, a creative director and a CEO traveled nearly 700 miles of the Western Michigan coastline from New Buffalo to Mackinaw City. The result: Several pit stops, some stunning discoveries, a few leg cramps, a lot of laughs, and this freakin' awesome guide to Western Michigan's Lake Michigan beaches.

SUN SCREEN GUIDE

Spending a day, weekend or full week at the beach is always a fun time—but can quickly take a turn for the worst without lathering up on sunscreen. Sunburn is a real threat to enjoying your trip to the beach and to our health. Wearing sunscreen should be non-negotiable, but wearing the right sunscreen is even more important. While sunscreen protects our skin from burns, most sunscreens actually do more damage than they help—made with harmful chemicals like oxybenzone and retinyl palmitate.

Not sure which sunscreens protect you against the sun's rays and are also safe for your body? Check out EWG's Sunscreen Guide, complete with best sport sunscreen, best moisturizers with SPF, best scoring kids sunscreens, and much more. Get the guide mailed to you or view it online for free!
